PRESIDENT McDOWELL

Of Tennessee Presents to the Public an Explanation of His Letter to McAlister Concerning the Macune Matter.

A letter purporting to have been written to W. S. McAllister in March last giving points drawn out in the investigation of C. W. Macune's connection with the Georgia senatorial election has been published in Memphis Commercial and Nashville American, accompanied by editorials, and endeavoring to place me in a false position before the public. I therefore ask space to reply, believing that the public is always willing to give a fair hearing to any one in or out of the farmers' alliance. It was never my intention through the public press or other public channels to discus the investigation of C. W. Macune or any other matter that would be regarded as a violation of the secrecy of our national body. Any member of the order, in good standing has a right to know what took place in the national body, in our investigating committee room, but the people of the outside world have no more right to know than they have to inquire into the secrecy of the trial of a brother in the masonic lodge, which is never made public. But since a traitor to our cause has made public by publishing (my private letter written to him), some of the points brought out before the committee in that investigation, and wilfully and knowingly placed me in a false position and possibly an injury to the order in putting one of our national officers in a false light, I will, as far as my obligation will allow under the circumstances, explain to the public my position and knowledge of the facts in the matter.

W. S. McAllister attended our National Alliance meeting at Ocala, Fla., and was introduced to me as a gentleman and member in good standing. We became intimate friends, attended the national legislative council at Washington last February and came home together. I invited him to accept the hospitalities of my home, which he did. Therefore I trusted him as a brother and gentleman whom I felt that I could trust in private correspondence with information I might have in compliance with his often repeated importunities for same. So regarding him, I kept no copies of any letter written and therefore do not question the correctness of the letter published, not remembering the language used by myself in that correspondence.

In the investigation at Ocala, Fla., Brother Macune voluntarily filed a statement showing that the losses on the Economist, to that date had been $19,000; that Macune borrowed $2,000 from Pat Calhoun—after the senatorial fight was over—that Macune actively supported Calhoun for the United States senate after the caucus of alliance men in the legislature elected him as their choice; that Macune bought a residence in Washington at $8,000, paying $1,000 cash and $100 per month thereafter, and that Sledge and Macune bought the majority stock in the Southern Alliance Farmer, and that Sledge furnished all the money.

With those statements before us unexplained by any evidence satisfactory to me at that time, I felt that other evidence—from Georgia and Washington, which want of time during the national meeting prevented our getting—should be had before we decided C. W. Macune guilty of indiscretion or wrong doing, and I drew up a report opposed to the one agreed upon by the committee, But after thorough discussion of the matter in the committee a large majority disagreed with me, contending that without all the facts and further testimony, which we could not get, it would be wrong to condemn him and in a spirit of fairness to a man whom I believed to be guilty of some indiscretion or wrongdoing—though I did not have the positive proof—withdrew my minority report after every other man on it had agreed with me that it was best, but I determined during the intervals between the national meetings to make a complete investigation and bring the matter before the next national body if I got facts to convict Macune. I have made a rigid and careful investigation since that time by correspondence and personal communications with men in Washington and Georgia, and since my correspondence with McAlister I have become convinced that Macune is not guilty and is a persecuted and slandered man, and thus believing I could not honorably do less than to say so. My investigation made among Macune's enemies and friends has developed the following facts, with proof unquestioned to my mind:

Ten men owned the Economist, and the losses on it until it got to making money, above expenses were met by the ten incorporators, and not by Macune.

That the company owning the paper paid Macune a salary of $200 a month as editor-in-chief and manager, and with this salary he was enabled to make his monthly payments on his home as thousands of the poor men in cities do under the building and loan association plan.

That he was notified while in Georgia that the Economist was forced to have $2000 to meet pressing obligation, and that he borrowed it as manager of the Economist Publishing Company and not for himself individually, and that the money was paid back.

That the Southern alliance Farmer was about to go under, being in debt at the time Sledge and Macune bought it, and that they purchased it at the request of alliance men in Georgia to prevent the loss of the organ. That Sledge furnished all the money. Afterward the paper was sold to Georgians for the same price paid for it by Sledge. This information I got from F. L. Livingston, president of the Georgia state alliance.

As to the senatorial fight, the proof is positive that the alliance members of the legislature did elect Pat Calhoun in caucus, before Macune actively supported him, for the reason that Calhoun had come out openly for the sub-treasury principle. It is true that he was attorney for a railroad system but the proof also shows that his opponent, Mr. Norwood, was also a railroad attorney, and it is well known that Senator Gordon, the other candidate, resigned his seat several years ago in the United States senate to accept a lucrative position as attorney or president for a railroad. These were the three candidates, with Pat Calhoun nearer our demands than either of the others.

Therefore after a careful investigation of the whole matter, I am thoroughly convinced that C. W. Macune has done in these matters just what he believed to be for the best interest of the whole order. In the Georgia senatorial fight, he had the endorsement and active support of State President Livington.

Now as to Carmick and McAlister. Before Macune came to Tennessee to speak I met Carmack and told him that I had been strongly opposed to Macune until recently investigation had satisfied me that I was wrong. I told him that I had investigated the statements made to me by Hall of Missouri about Macune having got money on checks through a bank in Georgia and in Washington, tending to disprove statements made to the committee by Macune and that I found that Hall had misrepresented the facts whether willfully or not, and Carmack knew the exact reasons given him in detail as to my change for Macune when he wrote that editorial endeavoring to place me in a false position. When in Mississippi I took pains to explain to W. S McAlister just what my investigation had developed, and why I had become convinced of Macune's innocence. Therefore, when he published that letter he not only violated his honor as a gentleman, friend and brother, but he willfully and knowingly misrepresented my position for the purpose of furnished unfriendly political press sensational news, for which as, their hireling, he is paid. He has been turned out of the order once managed to worm himself in again. He has been for sometime the paid correspondent of a Memphis paper unfriendly to us, and under the garb of fraternity secures alliance news in confidence which he deals out to our enemies in the shape of specials sent from Canton and Jackson, Mississippi. A man who will publish private correspondence and secrets which belong only to members of any fraternity deserves the scorn and contempt of all honorable men.

Respectfully,
J. H. McDOWELL.

The End and the Remedy.

The great end which the Farmers' alliance seeks to compass—the redress of the grievances from which farmers, in common with the laboring classes generally, suffer—will be attained by bringing government—national, state, county and municipal—back to the principle that no money is to be taken from the people except to support honest government, economically administered by abolishing all special privileges; by ceasing to bestow favors upon the few to the detriment of the many; by stopping all partial and class legislation, and by providing the country with currency ample enough to meet its steadily increasing demands; so that the blessings of government shall fall alike on the millionaire and the beggar, and that government shall exercise the narrowest limit of power consistent with efficiency, and confer the broadest liberty upon the citizen consistent with peace, order and justice.

The Farmers Weekly: The most despicable enemy of the farmers' movement is the "plug hat" agricultural journal which while pretending to work in the interest of farmers, improves every opportunity to denounce the principles for which farmers are striving. These papers are usually printed on fine paper and present a very attractive face. We have known people just like them, and have been as badly left by their oily tongues as will the farmers who place their faith in the agricultural organs of monopoly.

Grateful.

"It was very, very mortifying," said the doctor. "I made a sad error of judgment, and the man died."

"What did his family say?"

"Oh, they were very grateful for what I had done. He was very rich."—New York Herald.

CORONIC MALARIAL DISEASES.

Periodical Neuralgia Caused by Malarial Poison.

The Greatest Remedy of the Age for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, and all of the Irregular Forms Malarial Diseases.

Extract from a Lecture by Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, O.

Malaria headache (or hemicrania) is a pain extending above the eyebrows around the head, with regular intervals, coming on about 1 or 2 p. m., growing more severe from 4 to 8 p. m., and finally disappearing after sundown. It may occur in the morning, or at noon, and in some cases at sunrise, increasing until noon, gradually disappearing in the afternoon, giving a perfect intermission during the night.

Malaria neuralgia generally attacks one side of the face or head, either the temple or above one eye. The regular appearance and disappearance of the neuralgia is precisely the same ae in other forms of malarial diseases, presenting a regular recurrence and distinct interval of relief. It may also attack any other part of the body — face, teeth, shoulder, muscles or the chest, etc., etc. Whenever a pain is caused by malaria it has either a distinct intermission, as in remittent fever.

A lady called to see me some time ago who was complaining of a most excruciating pain of her right knee, which returned at 2 p. m., gradually lessening, entirely ceasing at 10 p. m., returning the next day at 2 p. m. This had been going on for two months without cessation. She had been treated with quinine in small and large doses; had cut and blistered the knee; used electricity and many varieties of liniments. It was a typical case of malarial neuralgia of the knee. I ordered her to take, during the intermission, a wineglassful of Pe-ru-na every two hours until four doses were taken, after which a tablespoonful every hour during the remainder of the intermission, until the time for the next spell has passed. And when the disease stopped a tablespoonful every two hours during the day for ten or fifteen days, or until the cure should be certain to be permanent. This treatment is exactly what I would advise in all of the above-prescribed cases. It will cure every case. Also in cases of chills and fever or other malarial diseases when there is a distinct intermission. In cases of indistinct malaria, without any positive chill or fever, Pe-ru-na should be taken as directed on the bottle.

A Baby Burglar.

GALVESTON, TEX., Sept. 20.—A small boy attracted a good deal of attention today at police headquarters as he was without doubt the youngest burglar that has ever been arrested in this city. He is 5 years old and was caught by Officer Henry Bee trying to force open the money drawer of G. B. Marsan & Co. with an oyster knife and hatchet. He had squeezed himself through a broken window at the rear of the store and had first attempted to open the safe. Not being able to succeed he turned his attention to the money drawer and was working hard to open it when he was discovered by the officer.

Address,

DEMOCRAT PUB. CO.,
McKinney, Texes.

THURSDAY SEPT. 24, 1891.

WE advise the Farmersville News man to read McDowell's statement in regard to Macune published in this issue.

THE Fort Worth Gazette has its hands full in fighting the farmers alliance on one side and the works of a democratic legislature on the other.

MCDOWELL says McAlister is a paid correspondent of a Memphis paper unfriendly to the alliance and furnishes alliance news under the garb of fraternity.

MCDOWELL, of Tennessee, in writing about McAlister rightly soys: "A man who will publish private correspondence and secrets which only belong to members of any fraternity deserves the scorn and contempt of all honorable men."

THE late attack of McAllister on Macune, and of others on President Polk and President Stokes of South Carolina and the braggadocio way in which they are recited and commented on by the party press, sounds to a man up a tree like this: "We can't meet their arguments, but we will fight before we will give up the public pie."—Jacksboro Sentinel.

THE Anti Sub Treasury convention at St. Louis last week was a failure as regards their objects. A meagre attendadce was had and a split resulted. U. S. Hall tried to start a new alliance which was frustrated in consequence of which he got mad and refused to attend the last day of the meeting The remainder wisely passed a resolution to remain in the alliance.

ON last Tuesday at 12 o'clock (noon) 1,500,000 acres of land adjoining Oklahoma was opened for settlement and immediately 20,000 people poured across the lines in almost every conceivable shape—some in wagons, some in buggies, some on horseback, some walking, and it is said that many cowboys rode on steers. The scene was grand and exciting. Some killing has been reported.

LAST Monday a destructive fire broke out in the stables of the state fair grounds at Dallas. Fourteen hundred stalls and seventeen fine horses were burned.

Over a hundred horses were released and it required a great effort to prevent them from rushing back into the burning stalls and becoming burned. Before the smoke was cleared away contracts were made for the rebuilding, which is to be completed by this (Thursday) evening.

WE have just come in possession of a special edition of the Alvin Sun, which contains an exhaustive, well composed write up of Alvin and vicinity, Brazoria county and the coast country. The edition reflects credit on the live, energetic proprietor of the Sun, which no donbt will meet with just appreciation from the citizens of Alvin and community.

We visited Alvin about one year ago and found that its good citizens do not exagerate the country.

THE New York Sun has published in a garbled manner the secret works of the farmers alliance. It will do little harm to the alliance, from the fact that all sensible people will denounce the Sun for its meddling and will look upon the man who was the Sun's informant as a villainous scoundrel—a traitor who violates his word without provocation, as nothing transpires in the secret works of the Alliance to justify the violation of confidence.

What does the public think of a man (?) who would give to the world the secret works of either the masons, odd fellows, knights of pythias or any other worthy organization? Even the violation of confidence between individuals is an ingrate of the lowest type and decent society everywhare regards him as such. How much meaner then, is the miserable carcass who sneaks into a noble order, only to play the part of a dirty spy? We let our readers answer.

THE alliance circular advising farmers to hold their wheat, is now explained, was not an official document, but merely a letter of information from the Alliance Press Bureau intended for the general welfare of the farming community. The distinction between an official circular and a circular from the official Press Bureau is so fine that it might have misled most people but for this explanation. Whatever the technical character of the document, the effect has doubtless been to contribute to the stiffening of prices in the grain market; and the upward jump in the Chicago market yesterday was attributed to the circular in question.—Philadelphia Record.

MCDOWELL, of Tennessee says that after investigation he found that the $1,900 loss on the Economist was paid by ten stockholders in that paper and not by Macune—that Macune received $200 per month as a salary for acting as editor and general manager of the National Economist and that he promised to pay $100 per moth on his Washington home. He further states that Macune borrowed $2,000 from Pat Calhoun to meet some pressing demands on the Economist, which was afterwars paid back. In regard to the buying of the Southern Alliance Farmer he says that Sledge paid for that paper which was afterwards sold back to Georgians for the same price given. We advise the opposition to read McDowell's letter in this issue of THE DEMOCRAT then proceed to kick themselves vigorously—for broncos make good kickers.

IT WAS A FARCE.

The anti-sub-treasury gang at St. Louis succeeded in making darn fools of themselves. Too many of the gang had personal grievances to get redress for and indulged in miserable personalities against their enemies. It was a farce—a disgraceful farce.—Collin County News.

Tut, tut. Don't be so rough on the poor fellows. Remember you have been engaged in "miserable personalities" against Macune and others and no doubt by the wide(?) circulation of your paper, you have taught these few-and-far between fellows to make "darn fools" of themselves.

Old boy we like you because you are a good, jolly fellow and we take pleasure in overlooking your past mistakes, and noting your present candid acknowledgement. Respectfully,

MCKINNEY FAILURE.

A MISTAKE IN THE GAME.

Butchering Language.—A Spicy Answer.

To the Editor of Collin Co. News.

FAYBURGH, Tex., Sept. 21—We have read today the editorial column of the News, dated Sept. 17th, '91. Benevolence and charity prompts us to disrupt the friendly relations between us at once, relations so instructive for you, so amusing for me. How glad we would be to compliment you, t pour oil on the troubled waters, but, sir, it cannot be! There is no malice in our heart against you, you got our sympathy. We hope that the tender mercy of your readers (of a suffering humanity) will deal with you kindly and forgiving. The impression you left on our mind, when you appeared on the scene as the "lion tamer" has not been sustained when you come in actual contact with the "beasts of the field." We have made a grave mistake! We had the wrong cow by the ear, or to make it more plain, we were mistaken in the game. While we were hunting for bear, we focled our time away in treeing a rabbit. For the future we beg to be excused. With prospects of a prolonged chase before us, with game in sight that has been fattened for a quarter of a century in the public pasture, cunning as the fox and ferocious as the tiger, we can hardly afford to waste our rmunition. It is not that we love the sport less but that we love our country more.

There is a certain plant—the huckelberry! But alas, the berry does not grow in the sanctum of the News. There grows the honeysuckle, a tender plant of annual growth, blooming for a short period and then it is no more. While the "hayseed" can stand the cold blasts of winter, fighting successfully against man and nature, the sweet scenting honeysuckle, reared amongst lustury, and provided with artificial means to prolong life, must perish. Cruel world! But such is life, the fittest will survive.

Being a stranger in our county your ignorance in regard to democratic rules established two years ago, is of course excusable. But let it be known to you that the great Bovalpus, himself, (he who must be obeyed) has said that nobody shall be admitted in the councils of the party or act as public instructor, who has not voted with the party on the previou election. Now it has come to our knowledge that in '90, when alliance men voted for Hogg and reform, you voted for Heath and prohibition! While we followed the fortunes of Mills, Culberson, Bailey and other illustrious leaders, you my dear sir preached the Gospel of St. John; while we were demanding better legislation, you found a sweet consolation in that good old song, "Little drops of water." While we, true to democratic principles, accepted the verdict of the majority and were true to the platform, which said: Democracy will hereafter oppose the reopening of the prohibition question, you, kind sir, with a few followers dug up the terrible mutilated corpse and held a ghost dance. While we went en masse to the polls and voted for the man, who had said, "I am a democrat." You the grave, elderly gentleman and public instructor voted for the man who had said in a public speech that he had torn off the democrat collar. According to our rules you are just now a democrat on trial, so you will see at once that you are serving in a wrong capacity. You may honestly believe of having experienced a change of heart, but again you might be mistaken. Maybe our water don't suit your digestion, maybe our climate does not agree with your complexion, maybe it is just a disordered liver. Not having made a thorough diagnosis yet, we feel strained to recommend a remedy. Straight Bourbon democracy, mixed with very little drops of water might prove beneficial, while calomel and soothing drops might bring about a cure. We do not charge for our advice, thank you.

But before we close this our last epistle let us implore you not to pose before the public as a German scholar. Remember that the way you are butchering the language of the father land, cannot be any credit to you, nor can it be beneficial to my already shattered nerves Remember that you are torturing the immortal soul of a Steuben, who ranks next to Washington and LaFayette as the heroes of the revolution. You are causing the bones of Martin Luther, the reformer to rattle in his grave. Yes, sir, you are spitting in the face of Guttenberg, the inventor of printing. You will cause him to rise in his grave and curse the day when he furnished to the world the means of communication; for he furnished to you sir, also the means to commit a rape on a language so dear to his heart,

But fare you well and if for ever, if forever fare you well.

JOHN STINEBAUGH.

To the Business Men.

We desire a liberal share of your job work and if you will give us a trial we will GUARANTEE SATISFACTION both in the quality of work done and the price for the same. We do not propose to BORE you by hanging on to your counters and around your offices, but will highly appreciate any favors you may extend to us.

Talks cheap, but when it's backed up by a pledge of the hard cash of a financially responsible firm, or company, of world-wide reputation for fair and honorable dealing, it means business!

Now there are scores of sarsaparillas and other blood purifiers, all cracked up to be the best, purest, most peculiar and wonderful, but bear in mind (for your own sake), there's only one guaranteed blood-purifier and remedy for torpid liver and all diseases that come from bad blood.

That one—standing solitary and alone—sold on trial, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

If it doesn't do good in skin, scalp and scrofulous diseases—and pulmonary consumption is only lung-scrofula—just let its makers know and get your money back.

Talks cheap, but to back a poor medicine, or a common one by selling it on trial, as "Golden Medical Discovery" is sold, would banrupt the largest fortune.

Talk's cheap, but only "Discovery" is guaranteed.

A communication from Plowman of St. Paul, Texas, will appear in next week's issue.

Confirmed.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers the California Fig Syrup Company.

Sides—Phalin.

Last Monday evening at 8 o'clock the home of Mrs. S. A, Phalin, of this city, was the scene of a happy marriage. Mr. H. L. Sides, a highly respected citizen of Midway community, in Eastern part of the county, were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mrs. S. A. Phalin, at the latters home at the time above mentioned, Rev. Lowery officiating in his happy style. Mr. Sides is a gentleman of nearly seventy-one, while his bride is some younger. There were quite a number present, all of whom engaged in pleasantries and who unanimously wished the happy pair a bright future.

Several presents were handed in by admiring friends, among which was a set of silver spoons by our distinguished hardware merchant J. P. Dowell.

The groom highly compliments Texas as being a good place to marry—this being his third wife, all of whom he married in Texas.

May a long future of wedded bliss linger on the threshold of their future home, is the desire of THE DEMOCRAT.

FOR DYSPEPSIA,

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is an effective remedy, as numerous testimonials conclusively prove. "For two years I was a constant sufferer from dyspepsia and liver complaint. I doctored a long time and the medicines prescribed, in nearly every case, only aggravated the disease. An apothecary advised me to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I did so, and was cured at a cost of $5. Since that time it has been my family medicine, and sickness has become a stranger to our household. I believe it to be the best medicine on earth." —P. F. McNulty, Hackman, 29 Summer st., Lowell, Mass.

FOR DEBILITY,

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is a certain cure, when the complaint originates in impoverished blood. "I was a great sufferer from a low condition of the blood and general debility, becoming finally, so reduced that I was unfit for work. Nothing that I did for the complaint helped me so much as Ayer's Sarsaparilla, a few bottles of which restored me to health and strength. I take every opportunity to recommend this medicine in similar cases."—C. Evick, 14 E. Main st., Chillicothe, Ohio.

FOR ERUPTIONS

And all disorders originating in impurity of the blood, such as boils, carbuncles, pimples, blotches, salt-rheum, scald-head, scrofulous sores, and the like, take only

This picture can be seen at the DEMOCRAT office where orders will be taken for it. When in town be sure to call and see it.

REMEMBER, MY LOVE, that there is no ailment productive of greater discomfort or meaner feelings than

CHILLS

and fever. It has broken up many a love match and made many a heart desolate. It has been a barrier to success in business a drawback to earnest endeavor and honest ambition. When one enjoys good health opportunities are grasped and success attained with seemingly little effort, and the

AND

of speculation and money making is indeed exhilarating. But who feels more miserable, listless, and lifeless than one who has the chills and fever. And yet they can, one and all, without a single exception, be cured by using that old and reliable remedy known as Smith's Tonic Syrup, a medicine that is not bad to take and stands without an equal as a sure, safe, and quick cure for all disease arising from malaria and all other prostrating influences. Try it. It has thousands of grown people as well as children of this distressful ailment. It is the greatest tonic known for all debilitating and exhaustive diseases. It restores a feeling of health, strength, and buoyancy, and is very frequently prescribed and recommended many physicians, not only for chills and fever, but to fortify and strengthen the system generally. One real good point about is that one bottle will cure a whole family, for, being so much more powerful than other remedies, the dose is small and goes around among a good many, immediate good results always following.

PERMANENTLY

BY

The Cow Law.

The recent law enacted by the city council and which went into effect last Tuesday is unjust. It works a hardship on a certain class of our citizens, who are not supplied with lots for range and pasturage, while a more fortunate class have lots in the corporation and often plenty of pasturage near the city.

Of course it will be of little inconvenience to the latter, while the former will be compelled to tie their cows up or dispose of them and be deprived of milk and butter for their families. We are told, however that the "town cow" is a nuisance. She is continually into somebody's garden and even comes on to the square to pillage.

If property owners wish to protect themselves let them build better fences and to prevent pillaging on the square let the cows be driven off or let there be more precaution about exposing products within reach of the town cow. We acknowledge that the law relieves a few of the burden, but does it not inconvenience a greater number? We believe it does more harm than good, consequently we do not hesitate to brand the law as class legislation.

We advise the calling of an extra session of the city legislature for the purpose of repealing the unpopular measure.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

The is beyond question the most successful cough medicine we have ever sold. a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of cough, croup and bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 10c., 50c., and $1. If our lungs are sore, chest, or lame back, use Shiloh's Porus Plaster. Sold by Bristol Bros.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs Michael Curtain, Plainfield Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued use and after taking ten bottles found herself sonnd and well, now does her own house work and is as well as ever she was.—Free trial bottle of this Great Discovery at E. N. McAulay &Bro's Drug store, large bottle 50c and $1.00

Happy Hoosters.

Wm. Timmons, postmaster of Idaville Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from kidney and liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman, of same place says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the kidney and liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant; same town says Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle at E. N. McAulay & Bro. drug store.

For many years B. F. Thompson, of Des Moines, Iowa, was severely afflicted with chronic diarrhoea. He says: "At times it was very severe; so much so, that I feared it would end my life. About seven years ago I chanced to procure a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It gave me prompt relief, and I believe cured me permanently, as I now eat or drink without harm anything I please." I have also used it in my family with the best results. For sale by Bristol Bros.

AN ALLIAFCE SONG.

[From the Garden City Alliance.]

Come, follow, Farmers, one and all,—
Ye tillers of the soil,—
Throw down your work, and for awhile
Rest from your daily toil.

Come, let us in the Alliance meet,
And counsel with each other;
Establish unions of our craft,
For helping one another.

All other trades have organized
In unions for protection,
And if the Farmers organize
There should be no objection

Our produce is the staff of life!
On it all must rely;
Without the fruit of our toil,
Both man and beast must die.

Withhold our produce but one year
Our cause would be complete!
For every one would come to us,
And beg for bread and meat.

We have been badly used of late—
And may be so again—
Sorely oppressed by corporations
And by soulless middle-men.

But truth will win the day
In spite of all defiance
And soon a mighty change will be Effected by the Alliance.

Not long shall corporations rule
To their own hearts content;
Or middle-men forever take,
Their thirty-three per cent.

* * * * *

We wish to deal direct and square,
As nearly as we can;
And not allow ourselves to be Fleeced by a middle-man.

—"COUNTRY COUSIN"

AN ELOQUENT SERMON

By Dr. Chapman on Hate, Anger, Malice and Revenge.

Dallas News.

Rev. Dr. Chapman preached last night at Temple Emanu-El to one of the largest congregations that ever assembled there. His text was Leviticus xix, 17: "Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thy heart." Proceeding he said:

I desire to-night to speak of hate, anger, malice, revenge—the brood of vipers that make their den in the human heart. The source of all happiness is an elevated self-consciousness, and all our resentments are due to the fact that our consciousness of self suffers a depression. A depressed self-consciousness is the root of hate. There are two ways by which this may be overcome—one by intellectual culture, which applies to certain cases, and the other by moral culture. It is a curious fact that foreigners create antipathy, and the more so in the proportion to our lack of refinement. The vulgar rabble hates a foreigner. The Chinaman, when he came here first, was hooted and jeered at because of his strange ways. The English hate the Irish, the Czechs of Bohemia hate the Germans, the Turks hate the Armenians and Jews are hated by all christendom, or have been, and still are, among the vulgar. Our habits, our ways, make up the major part of self-consciousness. If we are not cultured we cannot justify our habits. When foreigners come among us they throw a doubt upon our ways and we hate them because they depress that consciousness of self. Nothing but culture can overcome this feeling. As we become refined we learn that the foreigner is not piquant but also intellectual and helpful to us; that each race bears intellectual and moral fruit, each after its kind. Each supplements the other. Mother Nature forms herself into a nosegay, in which the philosophy of German, the political sagacity of the English man, the religious depth and mysticism of the east are all necessary. We do not want to lose one of them. This spirit of cosmopolitanism, should, in my opinion, be encouraged in our public schools. We should teach our children what China has done for the world; let them learn the great parts of the history of Ireland, when she was the guardian of learning; let them know from Jewish history that the contests of the Maccabeans deserve a place with Leonidas at Thermopylæ.

A second cause of hate is difference of opinion, and the antipathy is proportionate to the uncertainty of the opinion. It is in points that you cannot demonstrate that most hatred is grown. The degree of hate is proportionate to the deficiency of logic. This is why religious difference arouse so much hatred. A man's religious opinion is a part of his person. He stakes his salvation on it and yet cannot demonstrate it. Culture will overcome this resentment. We must not base our lives upon myths which can not be proved, but rather upon moral truths which can be demonstrated. As for aspiration and infinity and the creative genius of the universe, the more we become cultured, the more we recognize that there are, that there must be truths in each, the less hatred there will be in the world. Anger, a synonym of hate, is yet to be distinguished from it. Anger is a momentary resentment, while hate is a permanent one. Anger is a rushing torrent, which carries destruction in its path. Hate is like a swamp, which exhales poisonous vapors. Anger is irrational. An angry man will do what he does not intend. The first murder was committed by an angry man. Cain did not intend to kill his brother. To overcome anger, a man will sometimes repress the outward signs of it; will force himself to observe an outward calmness, even though he rages internally, and after a little while his passion will subside and reason will resume its sway. But in the case of hate, to repress its outward signs is to make it more deep and deadly than it was before. I'd rather see the clinched fist, the pallid cheek, the lines about the mouth, the burning eye and the devil in the face, than see the smooth exterior, behind which hatred hides like a serpent in the grass. Beware how you harbor hate overnight. Individual hate cannot be over come by intellectual culture, but only by a moral change. Its chief characteristic is a desire for retaliation. How are we to account for this feeling? How does it affect the smart I feel, because the person who inflicted the injury feels the same pain? If by hurting the offender the wrong could be undone, it might be reasonable. It has been argued that this is due to a desire to deter a person from repeating the offense. It is not a correct analysis. There are many injuries that can only be inflicted once, and it is precisely in these cases that the thirst for revenge is most intense. In the "Fool's Revenge" the honor of the jester has been foully tampered with by Malatesta. His hopes lie buried in the grave of his wife. The injury can never be repeated, and yet the poor jester burns to inflict every circumstance of shame and grief that he has suffered upon his enemy. Your true hater will follow the fleeing offender. His motive is a desire to be "even" He has the feeling that some one has triumphed over him—has pressed him down. He wants to rise above his enemy by pressing him down. The moral equality of human beings is here illustrated in the worst of vices. He wants to lift up his self consciousness, which has been depressed. There are some wrongs so subtle that the courts cannot reach them — insinuations against your veracity, your honor, or the honor of the woman you love. To resort to blows means an unseemly scuffle. It was to meet such exigencies that the duel was established. But the duel is simply an organized struggle, a scuffle dressed up in forms of courtesy, swords or pistols instead of fists. The guilty man is as often victorious as the innocent man. It does not settle the truth of the matter. One of the means of punishing such injuries is ostracism. I would that society would use this weapon in the right way. Ostracise the scandal mongers, who cast doubts upon their fellow men, without investigation and without proof. Ostracise them as either fools or guilty villains. They are the most despicable of creatures. Society should not tolerate any charges against any man or woman that cannot be proved. Ostracism should be the penalty. But if society fails to do this and instead ostracises men for their virtue, then I may ostracise such people from my company. I admit that this is a poor remedy, but it is the only one left. But there are injuries which society cannot rectify—the injuries inflicted by our brothers or our nearest friends. Then I say adopt the maxim of Buddah—return good for evil. If your brother offends you, try to prove to him that he is wrong. To this the text refers. "Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thy heart." By your conduct to him teach him what a brother ought to be. You are to be his moral physician. No one can take him from you. You have the right to cure him. The man who wrongs you is yours. By your kindness make him sorry. You can love your enemy in this sense, for we love those whom we help. Hatred is a peril to ourselves more than to others. It exhales an atmosphere, in which our soul-life must die. Nay, we should feel that we do not live at all, so long as there is anywhere on the wide earth one being whom we hate in our hearts. Yet there is a hatred which we should cherish—hatred of all that which hinders the growth of purity and truth. Let this hatred dwell with us continually, for while she abides in our souls, her twin brother, the hatred of which I have spoken, and which we should spurn, can never have existence in our beings. Then let our better natures prevail and receive the instructions of our text, "Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thy 'heart." Amen.

Negro Forger—Damages.

BONHAM, FANNIN COUNTY, TEX., Sept. 19.—Charley Jourdan, a colored man who has learned to write, was this morning arrested and placed in jail by Sheriff Chaney, on a charge of forging several parties names to a convict bond.

The now prominent case of T. C. Reedy vs. Dr. Briggs, editor of the Dallas Health Journal, was brought to a close yesterday after a three days' trial. The jury was out about seven hours and returned a verdict of $1 damages. It will be remembered that this case was heretofore reported in the Gazette, stating that Reedy had sued for $15,000 damages for a libel publiseed in the Health Journal.

A Logical Refusal.

Many years ago a rich, wicked and parsimonious Dutchman lived in one of the towns of the Mohawk valley. A subscription was started to procure a lightning rod for the villiage church, and the Dutchman was visited by the committee. He heard the request for a contribution, and scratched his head.

"Whose house is dot, you say?" queried Mynheer.

"It is the church—the Lord's house."

"Vell, if der Lord wants to dunder down his own house he can shoost dunder it up again. I gifs nodings."—Kate Field.

A Wayward Son.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Sept. 19.—Logan Murphy shot and killed his father near Sawyersville Thursday morning and stood guard over the house and prevented his mother or any of the children from going out. Just before sunrise he attempted to escape, but was captured by the sheriff and posse. He said he had quarrelled with his father over a trifling matter and he had threatened his life. No lawyer in Sawyersville would take his case and he waived examination and was taken to jail in default of bail.

Took His Own Life.

WACO, TEX., Sept. 19.—Jas. Nichols, formerly a traveling salesman for Dupree & Co. of this city, committed suicide by taking an overdose of bromide this morning. His wife and two children are living in Brooklyn, N. Y., with his mother, who is well to do. The cause of the suicide was a protracted spree.

Women are not yet classed as persons in Kentucky. A new constitution was recently adopted in that state by a majority of 90,000, but it leaves the women of that state with all their former legal disabilities. Mrs. Josephine K. Henry, of Kentucky, says: "The new constitution does not recognize women either as people, individuals, persons, or citizens. A man who is deaf, dumb and blind, and who never paid a dollar except on his head, can go to the polls and dictate the laws that govern the affairs of women, while women of education and property, having all their faculties, are not considered "people."

The Banner freely admits that it does not admire some of the agitators who are attracting attention at the present time, but it does have an abiding faith in the wisdom, conservatism and patriotism of the real farmers of this country. The most encouraging sign of the times is the interest they take in the welfare of the nation. If any body has been frightened lest the farmers should do something rash, let him quiet his fears. Let him remember that in all the history of this country, in peace and in war, the real representative farmer has everywhere and at all times been a patriot and a good citizen. And that will be his record in the future. He will think for himself. He will not take the dictum of any party without considering whether it is right or wrong. But he is not going to smash things up and send the country to the demnition bow-wows, as some timid people seem to fear Perhaps some of them may follow unwise leaders at times. There are people in all callings who entertain wrong theories at times. But the great masses of the real farmers will continue to be the salt of the earth, so to speak, and while they have power this country will always be safe.—Greenville Banner.

There is no such thing as infalibility among men. All theories, schemes and doctrines proposed or established by men either in politicd or religion are subjects to the closest scrutiny. Liberty is possible only where we have free speech and a free press, so let the campaign of education proceed. Let the intellectual battle be waged fierce and hot. But at the same time let it be confined to principles. There is no occasion for offensive personalities. Principles are everything. Individuals are nothing in comparison.—Greenville Banner.

There is a tacit conspiracy between the straddle platform makers and the voters of their party. Both understand that the ones are to make and the others to seem satisfied with a string of flatulent humbug resolutions. Desire to win is the motive and the partisans are persuaded to allow the politicians a free hand simply to beat the other side. In that way, with professionals in both parties studying humbug policy, the people are always beaten.—Dallas News.

Hogs if properly managed will help the farmer who is in debt better than almost any other class of stock. Under present conditions of feeding and managing stock it is only in exceptional cases that the farmer can afford to pay any considerable amount of interest and at the same time keep slow growing stock with which to pay the principal and interest.

The battle cry of organized labor for "more money and less taxes" is worrying those terribly who live upon the earnings of others in this year of grace 1891. The attempt of the political bosses to sidetrack these demands reminds one of a man holding up his finger to stop a blizzard.

Italian women are on a strike for 3 cents additional wages, receiving now 25 cents per day for carrying marble blocks on their heads from quarries.

The Use Of

Harsh, drastic purgatives to relieve costiveness is a dangerous practice, and more liable to fasten the disease on the patient than to cure it. What is needed is a medicine that, in effectually opening the bowels, corrects the costive habit and establishes a natural daily action. Such an aperient is found in which, while thorough in action, strengthen as well as stimulate the bowels and excretory organs.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels became regular and natural in their movements. I am now in excellent health."—Wm. H. DeLaucett, Dorset, Ont.

"When I feel the need of a cathartic, I take Ayer's Pills, and find them to be more than any other pill I ever took."—Mrs. B. C. Grubb, Burwellville, Va.

"For years I have been subject to constipation and nervous headaches, caused by derangement of the liver. After taking various remedies, I have become convinced that Ayer's Pills are the best. They have never failed to relieve my bilious attacks in a short time; and I am sure my system retains its tone longer after the use of these Pills, than has been the case with any other medicine I have tried."—H. S. Sledge, Weimar, Texas.

Let's reason together.

Here's a firm, one of the largest the country over, the world over; it has grown, step by step, through the years to greatness—and it sells patent medicines!—ugh!

"That's enough!"—

Wait a little—

This firm pays the newspapers good money (expensive work, this advertising!) to tell the people that they have faith in what they sell, so much faith that if they can't benefit or cure they don't want your money. Their guarantee is not indefinite and relative, but definite and absolute—if the medicine doesn't help, your money is "on call."

Suppose every sick man and every feeble woman tried these medicines and found them worthless, who would be the loser, you or they?

The medicines are Doctor Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," for blood diseases, and his "Favorite Prescription," for woman's peculiar ills. If they help toward health, they cost $1.00 a bottle each! If they don't, they cost nothing!

We have nothing like political economy in this country. It is always political extravagance with us.—Dallas News.

A correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch writes; In Chile everything is wonderfully expensive but muscle, and that is of comparatively little value. A lady's bonnet costs from $30 to 100; dress silk from $6 to $20 the yard, and the modiste will charge you from $30 to $50 for making it. In Santiago I paid $12 the dozen for linen handkerchiefs of small size and ordinary quality, and $18 for a pair of butter boots
